10 playable characters will be brought on the gameRelated Original Updates:Q: Prove that  $x^2 - y^2 = z^2$  is dense in  $\mathbb{R}^3$  I'm trying to prove that  $x^2 - y^2 = z^2$  is dense in  $\mathbb{R}^3$ . Any idea on how to go about this? A: Consider the field of solutions  $S$  of  $x^2 - y^2 = z^2$ , i.e. the set of all  $(a,b,c)$  satisfying the equation. This is the set of points on the circle  $x^2 + y^2 = z^2$ . It is not hard to see that this is a line, the line at infinity, and it has a parallel as its unique line at infinity. Then the line at infinity meets  $S$  at infinitely many points, so  $S$  is dense. A: Consider the vector  $(1,0,0)$ . Take  $(a,b,c)$  with  $|a| \leq 1, |b| \leq 1, |c| \leq 1$ . Then  $|a| \leq |a+b| \leq |a+b+c|$  implies  $|a+b+c| \leq |a+b| + |a| + |b| + |c| \leq 3$ . Thus  $(a,b,c)$  lies in an infinite closed disk, and is dense in it. Preparing the Army for Urban Combat The U.S. Army is in the midst of a major shift. A cadre of experts and experts-in-training are studying the issues of urban warfare in order to make the Army better at countering that warfare. This series of articles will highlight those experts and experts-in-training, and attempt to understand what the Army needs to do to improve its readiness. In December, United States Army Europe's Chief of Staff of the Army Gen. Mark A. Milley gave a presentation to the Institute of Land Warfare in which he discussed the "Big Problems" of the Army. His talk centered on the dangers faced by U.S. forces in the near future and included the "Big Problems

What's new in Virtual Exhibition:

The Burning Ground is a song cycle by American composer John Zorn featuring four voices singing songs by the American post-dub poets Denise Levertov, Gary Snyder, Robert Duncan and Kenneth Koch. The style of voice is unusual for a composition that, being a song cycle, should actually be sung in almost any key. Only the final verse of "Bright Leaf, Not Fade Away" is in any traditional key, and the other three are in alternative keys. The sources of the voices are not intended to be clear from the music itself. Critical response to the album has been universally positive and the piece has won several awards. Music The first track was composed by making minimal stylistic changes to the vocal line of the last verse of the 1934 anti-fascist song "The Burning Ground". This is a very old anti-fascist song, known to have been sung by Pete Seeger's group The Weavers during the 1930s and 1940s. It was written by Bayard Veiller and Charles Brown. Zorn expanded upon the minimal changes, and continued to produce four vocal tracks, singing each of Levertov, Snyder, Duncan and Koch's works. "Bright Leaf Not Fade Away" Levertov's poem "Bright Leaf, Not Fade Away" was composed in the early 1940s by William Austin, under the title Summer Song: 12 Short Poems. In her work of the same name, Levertov reads the work of four post-war poets. She argues that in America today "the spirit of poetry can be fallen". Levertov continues: "especially, but not only, one should look for and find the poets who could speak to the whole of a poem. New poetry, they wrote, must break the isolation of the poem by living in relation to other cultural activities and centers of life – political, social, or economic. Above all the created world, or the world of language and thought, must have relevance to the real or to the lived world." Poets she names include Duncan, Snyder and Koch. "The Visions of Duncan" "The Visions of Duncan" by Gary Snyder was included on his 1948 collection of poetry No Highway: An Anthology of Some of the Edges and Territories in Poetry. Snyder wanted to put together a poem a week, a third of which was written by himself. However, he failed to keep up this schedule and he wrote only two poems in 1948, resulting in the inclusion
