In the UK, the Department of Health and Social Care and the NHS want to restore "meaningful reform" of third-party social care and align the NHS with the rest of the world. One element of reform is the new financial "frameworks" to be introduced by 2014. The Department has proposed a model to assess the impact of new third-party payment systems. The concept of such frameworks is analysed and their value is assessed in the paper. The framework model is compared with the more simplistic model of economic valuation. Based on the recordkeeping systems of large industries such as retail, wholesale, fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) manufacturers, and transportation in the U.S., the Electronic Logging Device (ELD) mandate also applies to these industries. Recognizing that the ELD mandate may inadvertently place many small businesses, sole proprietorships and partnerships in a difficult position of not being able to process payroll payments, it is recommended that an "indefinite deferral" exemption be implemented in these industries. Specifically, payroll processing activities that would exceed the automated processing capabilities of the business or organization should be exempted until the ELD mandate is lifted. This exemption would prevent
